Safe Storage of Household Pesticides

Household pesticides are usually ready-to-use products. Common examples include mothballs, ant/cockroach bait, insect sprays, mosquito coils and insect repellent tablets.

Although household pesticides are relatively safe and easy to use, we should read the package labels before use and follow the instructions on the labels. Here are some tips on purchase and safe storage of household pesticides:

1. Purchase of Pesticides

01 Purchase pesticides from retailers with valid pesticides licences.

02 Choose registered pesticides affixed with proper labels in both Chinese and English (bearing Hong Kong Pesticide Registration No. 1PXXX on the label).

03 Do not purchase pesticides labelled in foreign language(s) only or with unknown active ingredients.

04 Do not purchase pesticides in excess of the required quantity.

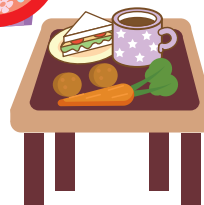

2. Safe Storage of Pesticides

01 Follow storage instructions on the label.

02 Keep pesticides out of reach of children and pets.

03 Store pesticides in a place away from food, drinks, feedstuff, water or medical supplies.

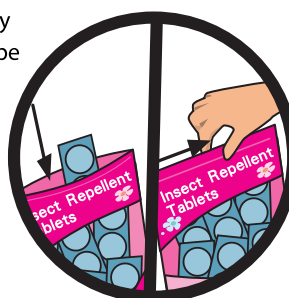

04 Do not store excessive quantities of pesticides.

05 Keep pesticides in a locked and well-ventilated cabinet, and keep them away from open flames and direct sunlight.

06 Pesticides with packages already opened should be kept in tightly closed and original labelled containers.

07 Dispose of the empty containers of pesticides as general municipal waste. Do not use them for any other purposes.
